

SERMON TOPICS IN THE CHURCHES TO-MORROW

BROADWAY TABERNACLE—Broadway at Fifty-sixth street. The Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, D. D., pastor, will preach at both services. The subject of his sermon in the evening will be "The World's Need of a New Heart." Prayer meeting on Wednesday evening at 8.

FIFTH AVENUE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—Fifth avenue at Fifth street. The Rev. J. H. Jewett, D. D.,

Haideman, D. D. 11 A. M., "The Church in Philadelphia; or, Keep Out of the Great Tribulation." 8 P. M., "The Mediator Who Thought Teaches the Survival of the Text."

ALABAMA UNITARIAN—Fourth avenue and Twentieth street. The pastor, Minister, Rev. William Laurence Sullivan, will preach at 11 A. M. Subject, "Whither the Religion of the Future?"

*To barter the sting of the mountain wind for the choking fog and smoke?
To barter the song of the mountain stream for the bubble of city folk?
To lose my grip on the god I leave and fumble among the creeds?
Oh, rocks and pines of the high, far hills,
Hear the lip of the valley reeds!*

From "Songs of the Outlands" (Houghton Mifflin).

ALICE HEGAN RICE:
AN APPRECIATION

produced work different from that customarily offered for Irish consumption.

While visiting Messrs. Constable, the English publishers of his latest novel, "The Raft," Coningsby Dawson met with the son of the late George Meredith and from him received a curious piece of information. It was contained in a letter written to Mr. Meredith by a French correspondent and has reference to the day of crisis when trial shattered the advancing wedge of Germans and saved Paris from the horrors of siege and invasion. The information referred to is contained in the following passage: "It appears that Joffre gave a simple counter-aim 'Jeanne d'Arc' to his troops on the critical day when the point of the Prussian arrow, flying straight toward the northeast gate of Paris, was blunted on your British front. The use of the words 'Jeanne d'Arc' for an Angli-

TO BE DINN

Model of First Presbyterian
Will Make Its Appearance of Dr. W. C. Ca

Unusual features are promised for a dinner that Philip Borolzheimer is to give at the Hotel Knickerbocker on February 15 in honor of Dr. W. C. Carl, organist of the First Presbyterian Church. There will be fifty guests, men and women.

Special decorations are being designed. The caviar will be served in small organs carved from ice. The cigarette holders will represent organ pipes and in the centre of the hall will stand a replica of the First Presbyterian Church, made entirely of sugar and wired to allow electric lighting inside. This model is to be presented to Dr. Carl's daughter. Mr. Borolzheimer has personally designed the souvenirs.

Among those entertaining at the supper dance in the Waldorf grill room last night were Mrs. C. R. Parmelee, Walter Ballou, H. R. Otto, Senator A. J. Tully, J. P. West, John Jameson and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Cleveland.

Mme. Sembrich has arranged a lecture in behalf of the American Polish Relief Fund to be given at the Gotham Hotel on February 10 by Louis Van Norman, author of "Poland, the Knight of the Nations." Mr. Van Norman will

Miss Edna Bates and Peter Paige of the "Chin Chin" company, through the courtesy of Charles Dillingham, have

Mary Finley Leonard, Venita Seibert and Margaret Anderson. This club meant nothing at the time, but it means now such stories as "Mrs. Wiggs" and "Mrs. Wiggs' Boy," and the "Study of the Decoration," and the "Little Colonel Rocks." It means also such works as Mrs. Reach's studies of married life, which have a value as a study of the memorable, and such achievement in anthropology as has made Ellen Semple a name known at Oxford and Cambridge, with a place in the greatest German scientific societies. To this little club, which was a study of the world as a body, became the very figure of laughter. Literally holding both its sides.

The story was published by the Century, and it was a success. The next summer, as somebody put it, every tourist had it "sticking up out of his pocket," and it had to be changed. Alice Hegan was now to be Alice in Wonderland.

On December 18, 1902, she was married to a French poet and a dramatist, and from this time on her life has been a succession of happy years. These have been sometimes bright, sometimes gloomy, sometimes full of natural griefs, but on the whole have constituted a delightful and wonderful period. Mrs. Clark has been a frequent visitor home; his work has been honored by such men as Oxford scholars and savants of India, Italy, Japan, and the United States, and has won the particular favor by reason of its
